Gangster to the bone. Although a tough shell to crack, he's cool and wary, but was never sure of himself when he had to execute brutal decisions. But underneath this visage, he was always intrigued by the Streetlight Band.

The lead character of the musical, he grew up in the ghetto and was inevitably snared to the gang. Charles continually questions his environs, he commits himself to others and rallies his ideals through his music with the Streetlight band, until the tension escalates dangerously.
